Ike & Tina Turner were one of the most exciting and riveting (in all senses of the word, both on- and off-stage) live acts of the 1960s and early '70s, and their studio work was pretty electric as well. This set mixes both studio and live performances, but it's a bit of a grab bag, with a couple of the tracks sung by other vocalists (Tommy Hodge sings "Down & Out" while Betty Everett sings "I'll Weep No More"), although the energy level is still mostly there. --- Steve Leggett, allmusic.com
