In 1990, Javier Vargas makes the most important move of his career and creates his own band: Vargas Blues Band.

All Around Blues, is the first album Javier Vargas recorded as leader of Vargas Blues Band, with collaborators Elena Figueroa and Philip Guttman among many others.

In 1992, Madrid-Memphis, Javier's second album, is released with collaborations from bluesmen Carey Bell and Louisiana Red, flamenco guitarist Rafael Riqueni and the vocals of Philip Guttman and Jeff Espinoza.

Both albums -All Around Blues and Madrid-Memphis- became widely popular and had record sales for a blues record in Spain.
