

Jack Owens and Bud Spires - It Must Have Been The Devil (1995)

Written by bluesever

Wednesday, 07 May 2014 16:03 - Last Updated Wednesday, 24 February 2021 20:32

Jack Owens and Bud Spires - It Must Have Been The Devil (1995)

1. Can't See, Baby - 6:08 2. Jack Ain't Had No Water - 4:43 3. Cherry Ball - 3:53 4. Nothin' But Notes - 1:33 5. Good Morning, Little Schoolgirl - 4:44 6. I Love My Baby - 4:52 7. Catfish Blues - 7:47 8. It Must Have Been The Devil - 9:48 9. Hard Times - 5:13 10. Ain't No Lovin', Ain't No Gettin' Along - 5:10 11. I Won't Be Bad No More - 4:37 Jack Owens - vocals and guitar Benjamin 'Bud' Spires - harmonica

Although this album is credited to Owens and Bud Spires, it's really Owens' show; Spires adds some harmonica accompaniment to Jack's playing and singing. Although David Evans (who produced these recordings) intimates that Owens is better than Skip James in his liner notes, it's really not that hard to figure out why James is better known; James' songs are simply better written, more gripping, and more memorable, and Owens tends to ramble pleasantly. If you're looking for the Bentonia sound, though, this is certainly a down-home, well-recorded representation, and has an advantage over those vintage James (or any vintage blues) sides in that the fidelity is much, much clearer. Recorded in 1970, the 1995 CD reissue adds five previously unreleased tracks. --- Richie Unterberger, allmusic.com download (mp3 @320 kbs):

yandex mediafire ulozto solidfiles

Jack Owens and Bud Spires - It Must Have Been The Devil (1995)

Written by bluesever

Wednesday, 07 May 2014 16:03 - Last Updated Wednesday, 24 February 2021 20:32

back