Keefe Madness is best described as a “we” experience. This band is driven by a common desire among the members to do three primary things. We love to play the music that we play, we genuinely like to have fun doing this and we want to be pals in the process.

We are five members of the unit that is Keefe Madness. Jim Keefe, our namesake, is our bass player and does backup vocals, David Casmaer is on drums drums, Wally Moore is the lead and slide guitar player who also does vocals, Ralph Brown is on saxes and vocals and Richard Collins on vocals, guitar and harmonica.

There is well over 200 years of combined experience in the band and it has helped to create a very fluid and diverse style of blues playing. Our rhythm section has a great deal of experience in varied forms of music and the jazz feel sneaks up on you when you might not expect it. There are influences that cover all types of music. We have been through the trends and we are now an eclectic mix of just plain cool sounds.

On stage we are relaxed and love to laugh and have fun. The grimly serious, ultra-musician persona cannot be found here. We treasure the groove and love to give ourselves over to it whenever possible. Our original material springs from ideas here and there that get brought to the studio and each member offers up his own input. There are no conflicts in this process and the end result is always a mix of each member's personality and experience being added to the stew.

We hope that you have as much fun listening to this album as we did while creating it. Thanks for stepping up and being a part of the "we". ---keefermadness.net
