Vexine is a four piece band from Richmond VA; home of Mr. Bojangles, NASCAR and cigarettes.

The band formed in late 2012, releasing their first record, "Vexine", in 2013 on Zap Records. In 2014, the band recorded a show at The Rutledge in Nashville, TN resulting in a live record called, curiously enough, "Live from Nashville". Both records were well received by local press and the band gigged throughout central Virginia in support. With a live show featuring hard guitars and soaring vocals, the band gained notoriety for great songs and singer Sarah Francis Gleason's on and off-stage persona.

The band began work on their new record, Little Sin, in late 2014. Waylaid by a busy gigging schedule, the album evolved slowly - both in the studio and the rehearsal hall over 18 months. By the end of 2015, the record was ready to go.

Featuring a more aggressive tone than their first studio record, Little Sin tracks the ups and downs of all of us sinners - from disappointed love affairs to lullabies and secret crushes. Stylistically the record mixes blues, classic rock and a dash of proto-punk psychobilly in a bouillabaisse of great rock and roll. A great record for FM AOR radio formats, you will find yourself listening to this on long trips and late at night.
