

Frank Frost - Big Boss Man - The Very Best Of Frank Frost (1999)

Written by bluesever

Thursday, 08 April 2010 11:28 - Last Updated Monday, 07 October 2019 16:17

Frank Frost - Big Boss Man - The Very Best Of Frank Frost (1999)

- 1 Big Boss Man Dixon, Smith 2:43
- 2 Jelly Roll King Frost 2:29
- 3 What You Gonna Do 2:41
- 4 You're So Kind Frost 2:50
- 5 Pocket Full of Shells Frost 2:00
- 6 Lucky to Be Living Frost 3:39
- 7 New Twist 1:53
- 8 Crawl Back Frost 1:58
- 9 So Tired of Living by Myself Frost 3:01
- 10 Gonna Make You Mine Frost 2:49
- 11 Jack's Jump [Tape Stretch on Master] Frost 2:14

Delta harmonica man Frank Frost hooked up with longtime friend and drummer Sam Carr (the son of blues legend Robert Nighthawk) and guitarist Big Jack Johnson in 1962 to form a stripped-down blues trio that came to be known as the Nighthawks. Sam Phillips of Sun Records almost immediately whisked them into the recording studio, and the result was a single and an album, Hey Boss Man!, released on the newly created Phillips International imprint. The recordings collected here are those sessions, and they feature a lean, ragged blues approach that adapts the Chicago sound back into a Delta format. The easy, natural roll of songs like "Big Boss Man," "Jelly Roll King" (essentially "Big Boss Man" in new clothes), "Pocket Full of Shells," and the classic, delightful instrumental "Jack's Jump" form the swampy template that the group would follow in their later incarnation as the Jelly Roll Kings. ---Steve Leggett, AllMusic Review download (mp3 @320 kbs):

Frank Frost - Big Boss Man - The Very Best Of Frank Frost (1999)

Written by bluesever

Thursday, 08 April 2010 11:28 - Last Updated Monday, 07 October 2019 16:17

yandex mediafire ulozto gett bayfiles hostuje

back