"I just want to say that" White Materials " is my fourth album and it's a work that almost completely dissociates from the kind of writing I used up to now. For this reason, according to the stylistic choices of compositions and sound combinations that you will find in "White Materials", I decided to produce this album completely by myself, so that you can listen to it without reference to labels or music genres.

I composed, recorded, mixed and mastered this work in my home studio. At the voice in "Window", "Cera" and "Frattali" my wife Stefania Avolio and at the violin in "Trees", "Doors" and "Nightcall" my sister Laura Masotto. All electronic elements have been processed in the modular system of my dear friend Matteo Bogoni. The album packaging is entirely handmade.
