

Joaquin Turina - Andalusian Concertos (1999)

Written by bluesever
Friday, 08 April 2016 15:57 -

Joaquin Turina - Andalusian Concertos (1999)

1 Rapsodia sinfónica, for piano & orchestra, Op. 66 11:13 2 La Anunciación, for piano & orchestra, Op. 27 8:57 3 El jueves santo a medianoche, for piano & orchestra 7:45 4 La Oración del torero, for lute quartet (or string quartet/string orchestra), Op. 34 11:03 Danzas gitanas, for piano, Set 1, Op. 55
5 No.3, Danza Ritual 3:44 6 Serenata for string quartet, Op. 87 14:26
Danzas andaluzas (3) for piano, Op. 8
7 No.2, Tango 3:26
Orquesta de Cámara de l'Empordà (Figueres) Isidro Barrio - piano & conductor

This unusual tribute to Turina features two first recordings and some more familiar works, with Isidro Barrio as a hard-working pianist, conductor and annotator. The cavernous sound hardly makes for optimum clarity but the performances, even when heavy-handed (notably in the Rapsodia sinfónica) are suitably flamboyant and idiomatic.' ---Bryce Morrison, gramophone.co.uk

Very disappointed with the quality of recording. It sounds like the microphones were at the back of a very large hall. But, this music is rare, so this might be the only option for listening to it. ---Jon K, amazon.com download (mp3 @320 kbs):

Joaquin Turina - Andalusian Concertos (1999)

Written by bluesever

Friday, 08 April 2016 15:57 -

yandex 4shared mega mediafire zalivalka cloudmailru uplea

back