highlights her vocal instrument, her gift for writing poetic lyrics, and an approach to composition that blends her pop sensibility with a reverence for the great Italian and Brazilian composers.

"Jazz is the most incredible diving machine when it comes to going really deep into music," says Civello, about her path of discovery, one sure to continue in the future. "But I knew I couldn't be the new Ella Fitzgerald; I couldn't be the new Shirley Horn. I learned all different kinds of music and then I said to myself, 'I need to find my own voice. Time to unlearn now, time to be free.' It's like a hot air balloon: To be able to fly you have to throw off the sandbags. I want to be as light as I can-light as a feather."
