

Echoes Of Swing □ – Dancing (2015)

Written by bluesever

Monday, 26 February 2018 16:33 -

Echoes Of Swing □ – Dancing (2015)

1 Hipsters Hop 4:10 2 Gavotte I, English Suite No. 6 3:00 3 Charleston 3:42 4 Dream Dancing 4:38 5 Diplomata 3:50 6 Lion's Steps [Dedicated To Willie 'The Lion' Smith] 4:03 7 Ballet Of The Dunes 4:58 8 All You Want To Do Is Dance 2:38 9 Sandancer 3:03 10 Carioca 3:36 11 Premier Bal 4:08 12 Ragtime Dance 4:05 13 Moonlight Serenade 4:40 14 Salir A La Luz 4:13 15 Original Dixieland One Step 3:10 16 Dancing On The Ceiling 3:45 Alto Saxophone – Chris Hopkins Celesta, Piano – Bernd Lhotzky Drums – Oliver Mewes Trumpet, Vocals – Colin T. Dawson

The band draws its material from a wide range of sources—both chronologically and stylistically. Generally this eclectic approach is effective, but Johann Sebastian Bach's "Gavotte I, English Suite No. 6" is more kitsch than swinging. Classic tunes like "Carioca" or Sidney Bechet's "Premier Bal" are played with verve as well as a few original twists and turns. Pixinguinha's "Diplomata" is joyful and danceable. The band's most inspired take on a much-loved favorite is the waltz-time "Charleston"—a great ensemble performance and a rhythmical shift that threatens the cruciate ligaments of swing dancers the world over.

The band's own tunes have an authentic feel, standing up well alongside the classics such as "Premier Bal." Altoist Chris Hopkins' "Hipsters Hop" is a fine up-tempo swinger: best of all is the mid-album pairing of pianist Bernd Lhotzky's cheery "Lion's Steps" (dedicated to Willie "The Lion" Smith) and Hopkins' graceful and seductive "Ballet Of The Dunes"—Lhotzky's playing has Ellingtonian touches in the former, Oliver Mewes' restrained percussion sets the mood for the latter.

The band members are all talented musicians, able to move smoothly from the subtlety of "Ballet Of The Dunes" to the good-natured humor of "All You Want To Do Is Dance." Colin T Dawson's vocal ability doesn't match his instrumental prowess, however—his light, thin, voice

Echoes Of Swing □ – Dancing (2015)

Written by bluesever

Monday, 26 February 2018 16:33 -

can't adequately convey the romance of "Moonlight Serenade" or Cole Porter's "Dream Dancing." It doesn't spoil the party, though. The music on Dancing matches the legend on the album cover—Good Time Jazz. ---Bruce Lindsay, allaboutjazz.com download (mp3 @320 kbs):

yandex mediafire uloz.to gett

back