On May 7th, 2014, Jazz at Berlin Philharmonic headed East on its musical journey, to the jazz stronghold of Poland. Whenever the topic of Polish jazz arises it s never long before the name Leszek Mozdzer is mentioned. The 1971-born piano virtuoso is revered like a pop star in his homeland, where his albums routinely make their way into the Polish pop charts. Mozdzer's music is deeply rooted in Polish music tradition while at the same time striving for new horizons. Everything is thrown in, from classical to jazz to pop, all interlaced and in sync with one another. Mozdzer s classical piano education enables him to explore his own worlds of sound with masterful technique. For his Jazz at Berlin Philharmonic , Mozdzer enlisted the help of Swedish bassist and cellist Lars Danielsson, Israeli percussionist Zohar Fresco and the Atom String Quartet. Together the protagonists in the sold-out Kammermusiksaal conjured up a celebrated concert evening that once again shows that a mix of jazz, classical and folk music provides important impulses for the future of European jazz. ---amazon.com
