

Gigliola Cinquetti & Don Backy (1969)

Written by bluelover

Tuesday, 05 June 2012 16:53 - Last Updated Tuesday, 15 September 2015 13:31

Gigliola Cinquetti & Don Backy (1969)

01 - Il Treno Dell'Amore. 02 - Volano Le Rondine. 03 - La Boheme. 04 - Zero In Amore. 05 - La Pioggia. 06 - Vuoi. 07 - Piccola Citta. play 08 - Io Che Giro Il Mondo. play 09 - Una Ragazza Facile. 10 - Voglio Dormire. 11 - La Carita. 12 - Come, Adriano. 13 - Hei Mister Tamburino. 14 - Dimmi Cosa C'E. 15 - Fuggiasco.

Gigliola Cinquetti (1-7), Don Backy (8-15) Orchestra Franco Monaldi Franco Monaldi – conductor Orchestra Frankie Stool Frankie Stool – conductor Orchestra Mariano Detto Mariano Detto - conductor Gigliola Cinquetti (born 20 December 1947 in Verona, Italy) is an Italian Pop singer.

At the age of 16 she won the San Remo Music Festival in 1964 singing “Non ho l’età” (I’m not old enough), with music composed by Nicola Salerno and lyrics by Mario Panzeri. Her victory enabled her to represent Italy in the Eurovision Song Contest 1964 with the same song, and she went on to claim her country’s first-ever victory in the event and achieve the first UK Top 20 hit with a non-English-language Eurovision song. In 1966, she recorded “Dio, come ti amo” (God, how I love you), which became a world-wide hit. In 1974, she returned to the contest, again representing Italy, and finished second behind Sweden’s ABBA with the song “Sì” (Yes), the music and lyrics of which were written by Mario Panzeri, Daniele Pace, Lorenzo Pilat, and Carrado Conti. When translated into English as “Go”, this song reached the UK Top 10.

Gigliola went on to co-host the Eurovision Song Contest 1991 with Toto Cutugno, who had brought the event to Italy with his victory in Zagreb the previous year - the country’s first win in the contest since her own twenty-six years earlier. Her latest album release was in 1995: “Giovane vecchio cuore”.

Gigliola Cinquetti & Don Backy (1969)

Written by bluelover

Tuesday, 05 June 2012 16:53 - Last Updated Tuesday, 15 September 2015 13:31

Don Backy, real name — Aldo Caponi, (born in Santa Croce sull'Arno, 21 August 1939) is an Italian singer and author. He collaborated with Sofia Rotaru for "Grey Bird" - Ukrainian version of Italian song "L'immensità".

download (mp3 @192 kbs):

yandex 4shared mega mediafire zalivalka cloudmailru oboom uplea

back