Lolita Torres' son Diego started getting involved in show business in the mid-'80s while playing roles in soap operas oriented to young audiences. Diego Torres' first band was called Marca, which broke up in 1991 when the artist decided to start a solo career and got a record deal a year later. After releasing Diego Torres in 1993, the artist started working on the following album. 1994's Tratar De estar Mejor sold 700,000 copies worldwide, consolidating the singer's
