2008 reissue of 2005 double CD set featuring recordings from 1997-2000 when Omara Portuondo started recording with the Buena Vista Social Club. She was nominated for a Grammy in 2004. This double CD, Lagrimas Negras (Black Tears), Canciones y Boleros, is the result of an interpretive creation full of feeling, intimacy, and naturalness. She returned to the Latin American popular classics -to Violeta Parra, to Virgilio González, to Alberto Vera, to Eusebio Delfino- with a fabulous ensemble consisting of the great Ruben Gonzalez and Enriqueta Almanza's piano, Richard Egües's flute, Martin Rojas's magnificent guitar, the bass of Cachaito, Mirabal's art in unraveling the mysteries of the brass instruments, Amadito Valdés's paila with AfroCuban rhythms and the tasty percussion of Hernan Cortes, Roberto Garcia, and Osvaldo Rodriguez. ---Editorial Reviews, amazon.com
