

Groundhogs – Who Will Save The World – The Mighty Groundhogs (1972)

Written by bluesever

Wednesday, 09 November 2011 09:51 - Last Updated Monday, 09 April 2018 16:21

Groundhogs – Who Will Save The World – The Mighty Groundhogs (1972)

01. Earth Is Not Room Enough - 4:49 02. Wages Of Peace - 4:35 03. Body In Mind - 3:48
04. Music Is The Food Of Thought - 4:36 05. Bog Roll Blues - 3:10 play 06. *Death Of
The Sun* - 2:52 07. Amazing Grace (Traditional, arr. Tony McPhee) - 2:22

play

08. The Grey Maze - 10:09

Personnel: - Tony McPhee - guitar, mellotron, harmonium, vocals - Pete Cruickshank - bass - Ken Pustelnik – drums

The final installment in the Groundhogs' trio of early '70s masterpieces--also including 1970's THANK CHRIST FOR THE BOMB and 1971's SPLIT--WHO WILL SAVE THE WORLD features eight epic tracks, so stripped-to-the-bone and brutal they are barely definable as blues. With the classic line-up of the band recording for the last time (drummer Ken Pestelnik departed after this album's release), the album has some of the heaviest cuts in their oeuvre: "Earth is Not Room Enough" finds a riffy groove dissolving into mellotron-driven confusion; "Death of the Sun" foregrounds frantically layered piano and guitar arpeggios; and the album's closer, "The Grey Maze," highlights the devastating guitar work that made Tony McPhee a British legend. Hearing the latter's fret heroics, one would be hard pressed to disagree with the album's premise (bolstered by the artwork of D.C. Comics illustrator Neal Adams) that the Mighty Groundhogs were indeed here to save the world. ---Patrick Sullivan, AllMusic Review download (mp3 @320 kbs):

yandex mediafire uloz.to gett

Groundhogs – Who Will Save The World – The Mighty Groundhogs (1972)

Written by bluesever

Wednesday, 09 November 2011 09:51 - Last Updated Monday, 09 April 2018 16:21

back