I had never heard of Eric Lindell until I went to the Bourbon Street Blues Fest in NJ this year and he was one of the performers. He and his band were fantastic! There was an awesome vibe when he played, everyone danced and grooved along. His songs sounded like a mix of blues, funk and rock and I love his smooth voice. He had copies of "Cazadero" with him for sale and I bought one and had him sign it. It has now been in my CD player for about a month! The only small complaint I have is that it's quite short, I wish the album were longer. Also the first song on the album is one I heard him play live and the album version is very short, only about a minute long. None the less, It's the best music to have coming out of my speakers driving on a warm sunny day with all the windows down. I haven't heard any of his other albums but I'm already looking them all up and hoping for a time when I get to see him live again! ---T. Seeley, amazon.com
