In mir klingt ein Lied, it is a pleasant sounding, belcanto-feeling album from 1969, which was released in a very exceptional way at the Supraphon company as well, but only with a fade black and white and boring sleeve. It is a really colourful album and we can find pop, classic, musical and even rock, Chopin, a wonderful Ave Maria and even Rolling Stones there. The album was very successful and it has contributed to the quick rise of Karel Gott's popularity in western countries and it was released in several club versions as well. A half of the songs of this album have never been recorded by Karel Gott in czech. The album was recently released on CD, together with the czech title Hity '71.
