Katie Herzig has steadily become a fixture in Nashville's up-and-coming indie music scene. She's spent the last few years touring the US, sharing the stage with artists like Brandi Carlile and The Fray and been a part of the Ten Out of Tenn and Hotel Cafe tours. In 2008, after her song "Heaven's My Home" was nominated for a Grammy, Katie was featured in Billboard Magazine's "Now Hear This" as well as one of PASTE Magazine's 25 "Best of What's Next" Artists. Her songs have been featured on NPR, KCRW's Morning becomes Eclectic and several tv/films including Grey's Anatomy, Pretty Little Liars, Going the Distance, and most recently a Target commercial in the US. She continues to out-do herself with each new musical endeavor. Her last record "Apple Tree" was a spellbinding, uniquely immersive listening experience that manages to be at once playful and impassioned—challenging and comfortable—intimate and epic...which is exactly what listeners have come to expect of Katie Herzig. ---last.fm
